The Dean's Alma Mater

From the plains, and from the valleys,
North and south and east and west,
To these halls, on wooded campus,
Come the fairest and the best.

Through the years the roster lengthens—
Loyal daughters all are we.
Now we pledge again devotion
To our school eternally.

CHORUS

Sullins, Alma Mater,
Our futures are thine.
Cornerstones shape us—
Palace divine.
Thy friendly spirit
Forever shall be
A mem'ry, a call
To love and loyalty.

—D. L. METTS, DEAN EMERITUS

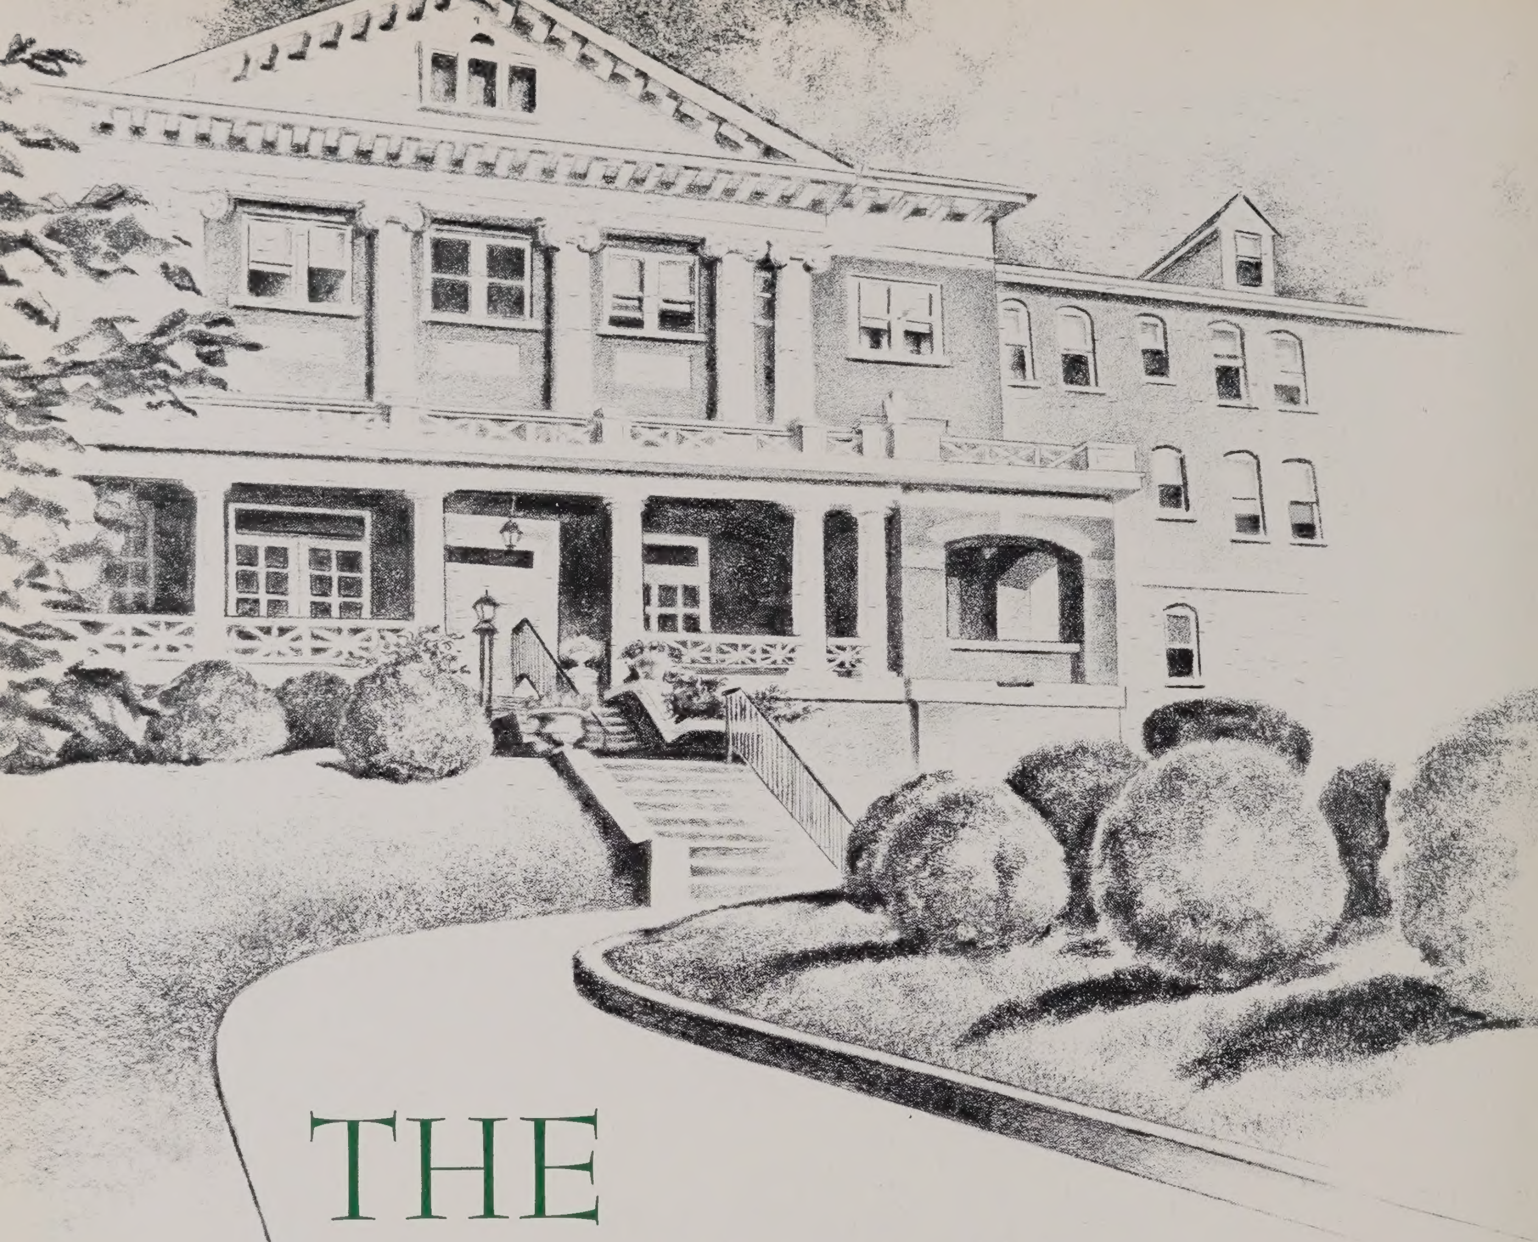
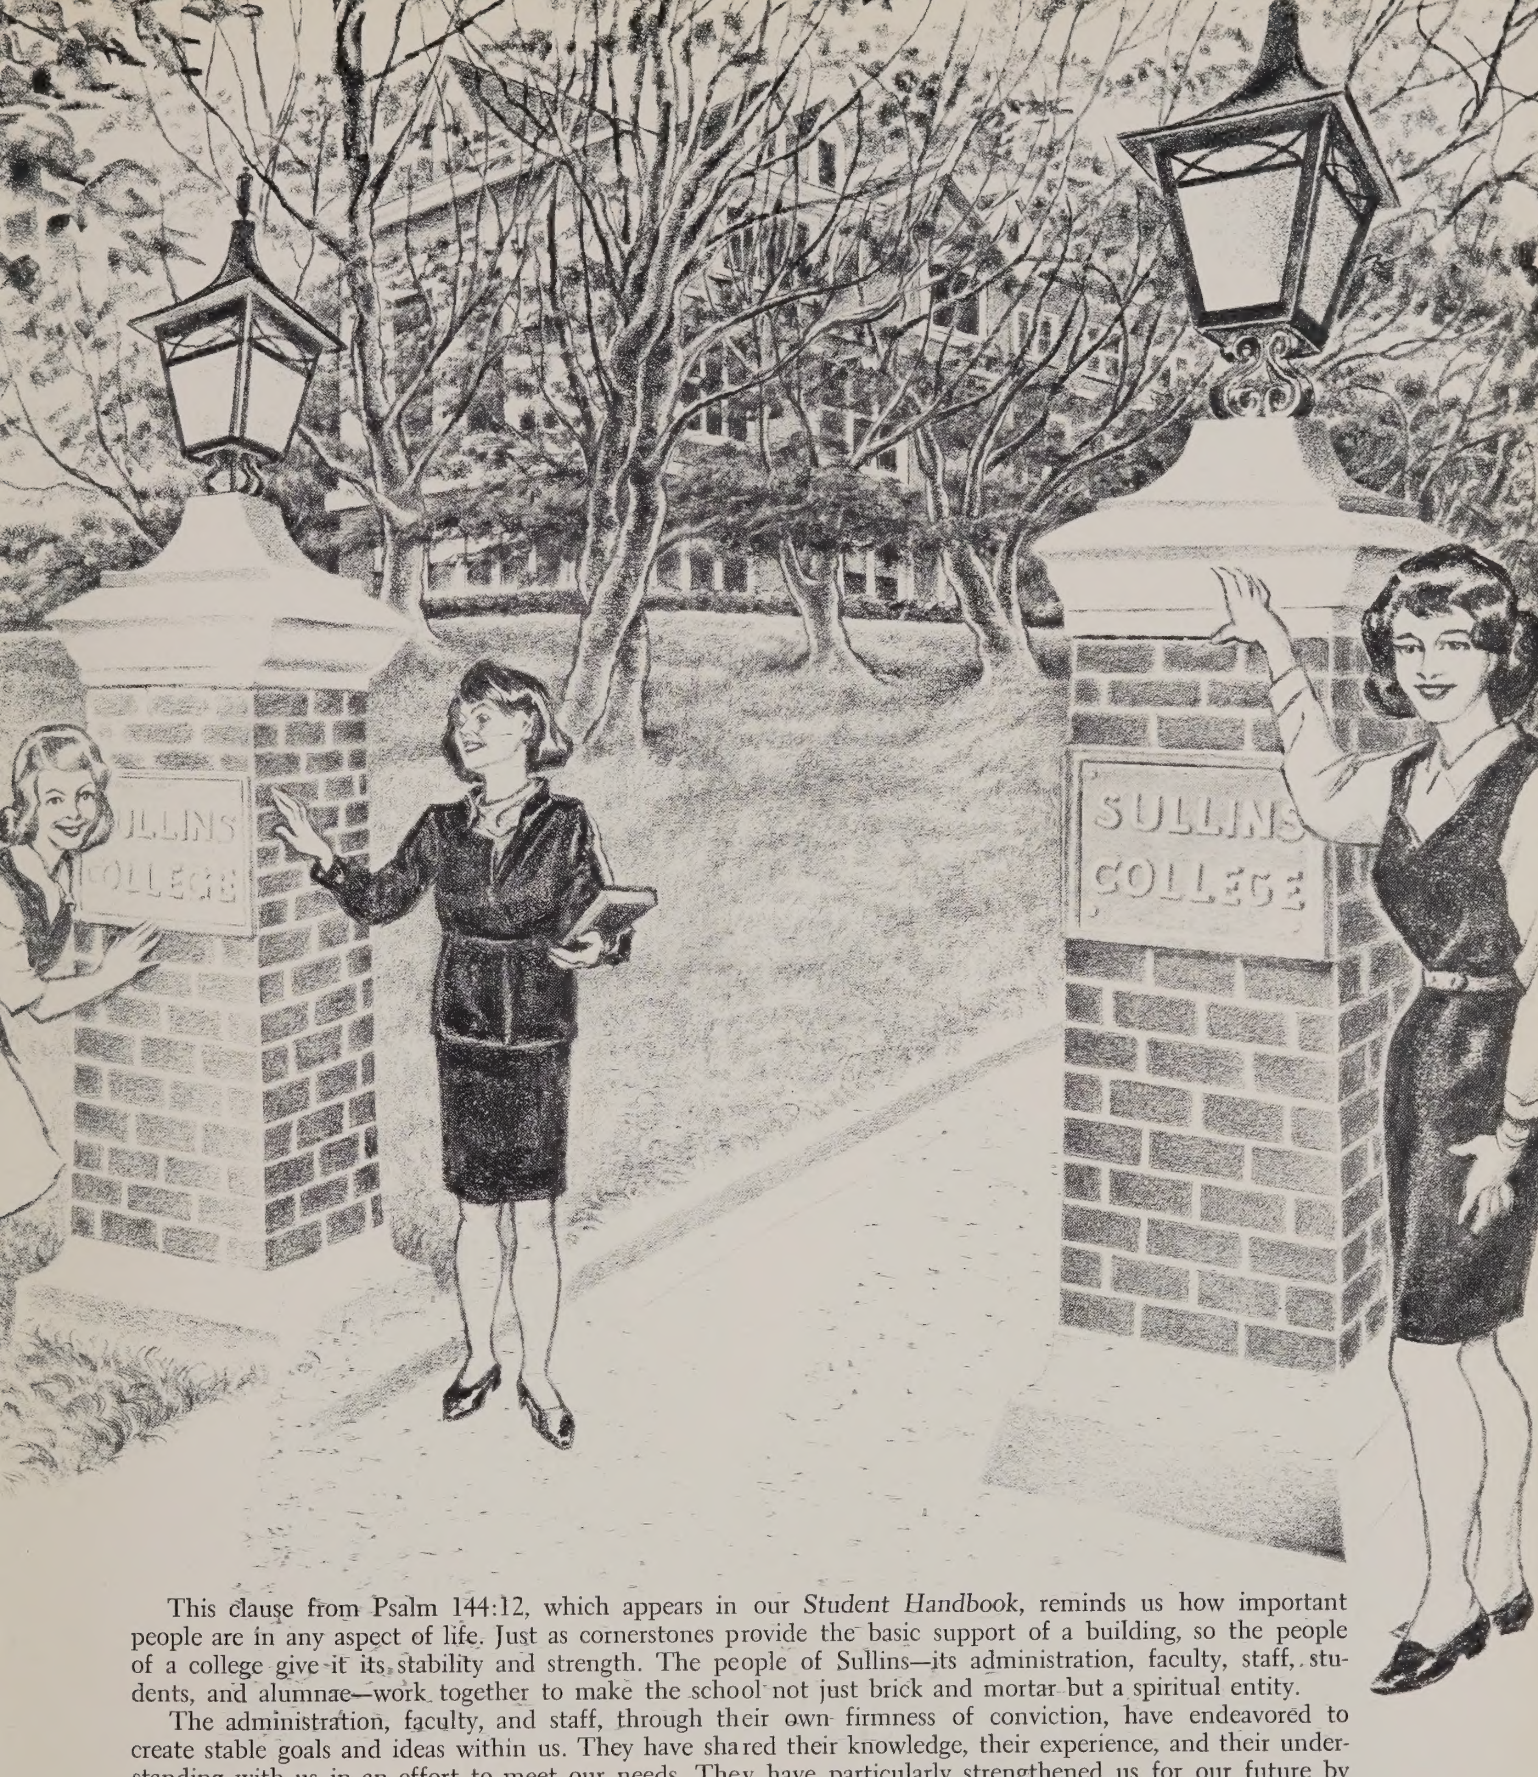
SULLINS
COLLEGE



THE CORNERSTONES OF SULLINS: ITS PEOPLE

"...that our daughters may be as cornerstones, polished after the similitude of a palace:" PSALM 144:12



This clause from Psalm 144:12, which appears in our Student Handbook, reminds us how important people are in any aspect of life. Just as cornerstones provide the basic support of a building, so the people of a college give it its stability and strength. The people of Sullins—its administration, faculty, staff, students, and alumnae—work together to make the school not just brick and mortar but a spiritual entity.

The administration, faculty, and staff, through their own firmness of conviction, have endeavored to create stable goals and ideas within us. They have shared their knowledge, their experience, and their understanding with us in an effort to meet our needs. They have particularly strengthened us for our future by encouraging us to develop our own highest potential. Also, they give continuity to Sullins from year to year.

In a sense, however, the people who are most important to Sullins are its students. We have shared joy and achievement, sadness and defeat. We have offered our support to one another; we have learned to live together. By cherishing and supporting the traditions of Sullins, we have become cornerstones, polished by our encounters with each individual associated with the school.

Finally, the alumnae have given support to Sullins and its traditions. With their contributions of time, financial help, and interest, they remain a vital cornerstone of the institution.

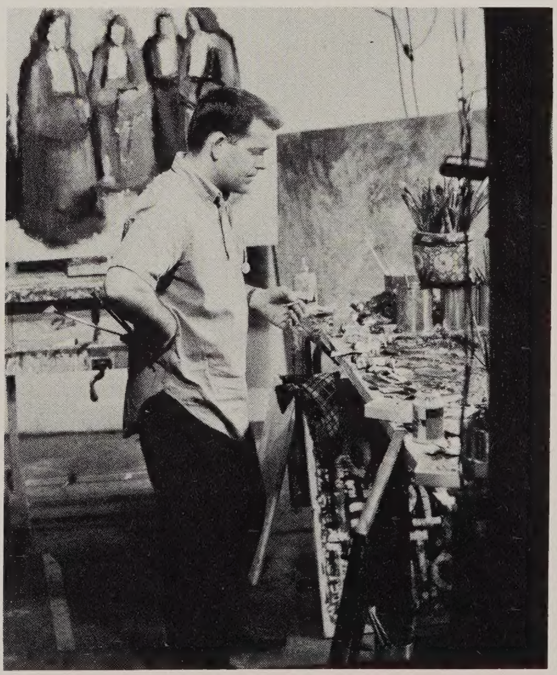
We, the SAMPLER Staff, pay tribute to the people of Sullins in our 1967 SAMPLER.

Dedication

In sincere appreciation of his great contribution to our lives here at Sullins, we, the members of the Sophomore Class, dedicate the 1967 SAMPLER to Mr. Russell S. Marshall, Jr. Although Mr. Marshall left us at the end of the first semester to join his father in business and to pursue his interest in art, he had been a member of the Sullins faculty since 1958. During the first semester of this year, and also in previous years, he served as Chairman of the Art Department. For a number of years, he sponsored or co-sponsored the Student Art Guild.

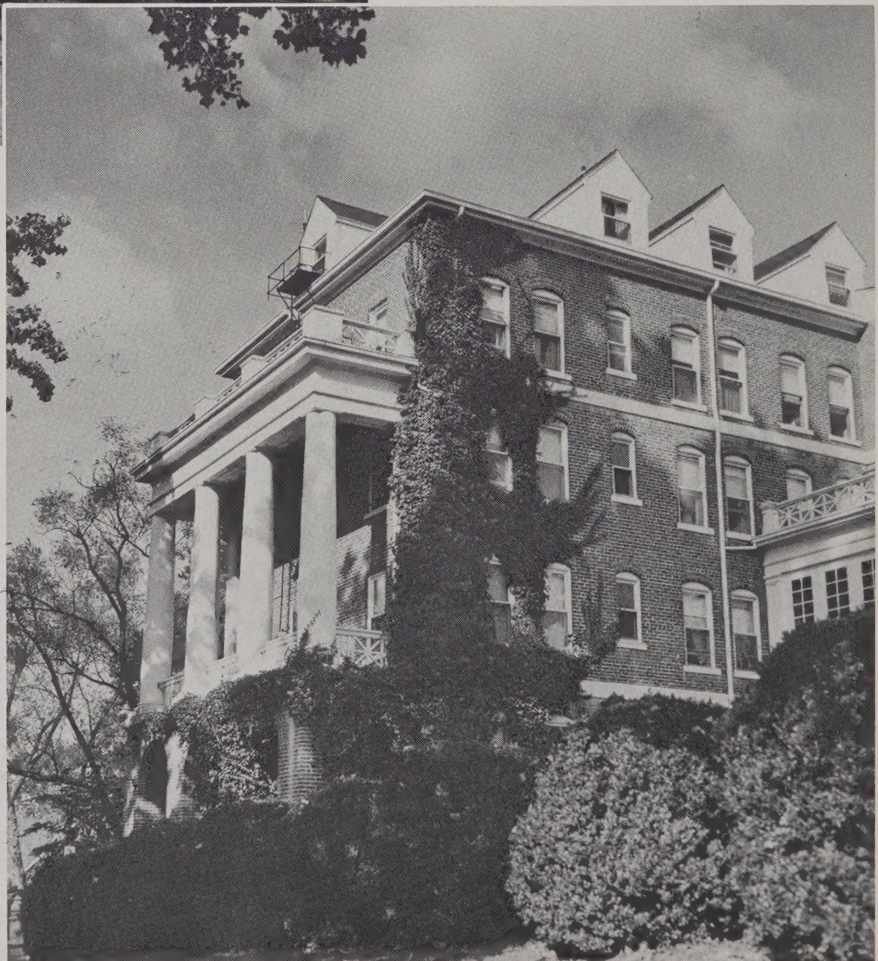
Mr. Marshall possesses a lively, yet sensitive personality that commanded the respect and won the admiration of his many students. Himself a dedicated artist, he created in his students a true love and appreciation of art in such courses as art humanities, art history, Interior Design, Beginning and Advanced Drawing and Painting, and Lettering and Design. Recognition of his achievements as an artist, however, has not been limited to this area, for his work has been exhibited and praised throughout the United States and in Europe and the Orient.

Mr. Marshall, we hope that this yearbook will bring back many happy memories to you of your experiences at Sullins. We wish you the very best of luck!



Campus Scenes

The gently sloping lawn and the trees of early autumn create a beautiful setting for Baskervill Library.



Reynolds Hall, with the traditional white columns and ivy-covered walls, serves as a dormitory for both freshmen and sophomores.

This year we have seen the growth of the Sullins Campus with the completion of our Memorial Chapel and new Science Hall. These structures feature the same stately Georgian architecture found in Martin, Holston, and Reynolds Halls, our dormitories; Virginia Hall, our faculty residence; Metts Hall, our administrative building; Baskervill Library; and the Fine Arts Building. With its rustic atmosphere, the Hut provides a retreat from our studies.

Even snow does not keep Sullins students away from the campus post office, housed in the Fine Arts Building.

Metts Hall contains the offices of administration and faculty, as well as classrooms and the language laboratory.

Social Science

Each freshman at Sullins studies Development of American Institutions. In place of textbooks, library material and classroom discussion are stressed.

Courses open to sophomores include political science, economics, sociology, psychology, History of the Far East, and Modern European History. Outside activities play a large part in these courses. Each economics student presented a seminar-type discussion of some problem peculiar to our economy, and the psychology and sociology classes visited the State Hospital at Marion.

The visit of Miss Lisa Sergio to our campus in December was of particular interest to social science students. Miss Sergio, a noted authority on world affairs, gave us some insight into the position of the U. S. in the world picture today.

Through her study of representative works from ancient to modern times, the student broadens and deepens her knowledge and understanding of her cultural heritage.

Guest speakers, art exhibitions, recitals, and Community Concerts offered supplementary material for the course. One event that humanities students found particularly enjoyable was the presentation of selections from the great tragedies, comedies, and histories of Shakespeare by a cast of five performers, under the direction of Philip Lawrence. The production, The Three Tabards of Shakespeare, consisted of scenes from Hamlet, Twelfth Night, Macbeth, The Taming of the Shrew, and Henry V.

Theme writing, parallel reading, a research paper, some linguistics, and a study of the types of literature are included. This year an intensive classroom study of one novel was added to the course. Sophomores may take a survey course in either English or American literature.

Mr. Alastair Reid, a well-known poet and translator, visited the Sullins campus this year as a Danforth Visiting Lecturer. At an assembly program, Mr. Reid spoke on the subject "The Tower of Babel," in which he pointed out the need for communication between people of different nations. As a supplement to regular study, the physical science classes toured the Bristol Caverns. Also of special interest was the Smithsonian Exhibition "Physics and Painting," shown in the new Science Building.

The mathematics division of the department offers Introduction to Mathematical Analysis and Calculus and Analytical Geometry I and II. Calculus II was added this year. In art history, art majors study the major objectives and techniques of periods and artists. The sculpture course introduces three-dimensional design.

Many exhibitions of student or faculty works are displayed in the Hut and Library throughout the year. Mrs. Lynne Benson, who was appointed to fill the vacancy created by Mr. Marshall's retirement at the end of the first semester, exhibited her drawings and paintings in the Hut Gallery during the month of November. Of interest to the entire student body and the public, the exhibition was of particular interest to the art students.

Music

In the Music Department, music majors and non-majors receive individual instruction in organ, piano, and voice. Members of the Choir are selected on the basis of vocal ability and interest. Through frequent practice and recital performances, the girls develop their ability. Music majors study theory courses — Elementary and Advanced Harmony, Solfeggio, and Advanced Solfeggio — to develop their skills in written and keyboard harmony, sight-singing, and melodic and harmonic diction.

Concerts at Tennessee High School, such as the one by Theodor Uppman, supplemented the classroom studies.

Betsy Yoh and Debby Bays, two sophomore music majors, performed before the student body in an assembly program on November 22. Betsy Yoh, soprano, sang several numbers, including "Il Pleure Mon Coeur" by Debussy. Debby Bays played the first movement of Concerto in A Minor by Robert Schumann. Debby has also acted as Choir Accompanist this year.

Dance

The Dance Department, headed by Madame Belova, works on a rigorous schedule, especially when preparing for such programs as those presented during Mardi Gras, May Day, and the Fine Arts Festival. Dance majors receive training in classical and modern ballet, choreography, character dancing, and the history of the dance.

In November, Madame Belova and the dance majors traveled to U. N. C., Greensboro to see The City Center Joffrey Ballet.

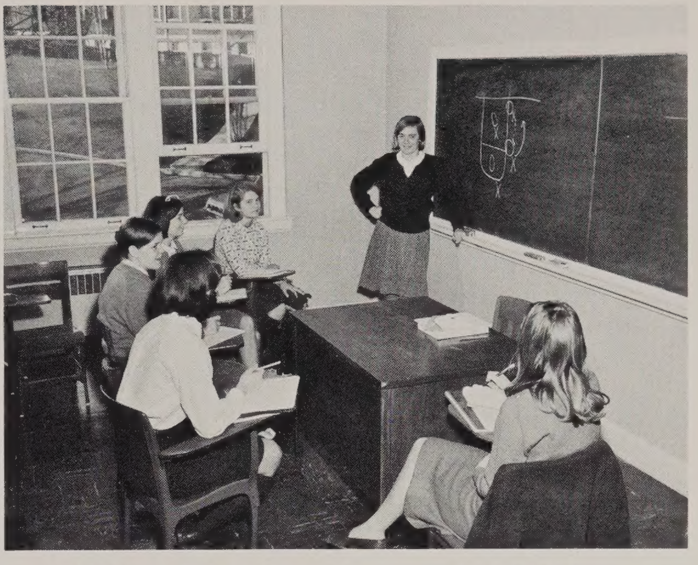
Each student must become a proficient swimmer. Physical education majors also take courses in health, techniques, and organization of physical education activities.

The Riding Department offers beginning, intermediate, and advanced equitation. Riding is a very popular activity at Sullins.



Freshman physical education majors study basketball theory.

CLASSES

The announcement of the May Queen and Princess was an exciting moment for us.

The Sophomore Class

With mixed feelings of anticipation and anxiety, we arrived on the scene after a summer of sun and fun. The whirlwind grabbed us and threw us immediately into the activities at hand—meeting freshmen, assuring parents, greeting old friends, and minor things, such as having counseling sessions to set up schedules, buying books, beginning classes, etc.

There were many social activities in the beginning to assist us in making friends, such as Dean Wheless' open house and President Martin's reception, along with the first Hut dance and trips to V. P. I. Fall brought us two big highlights: Fall Frolics, with its fun and excitement and visitors, and our tremendous breakthrough in football history when we won the Powder Puff Football Game.

As we settled down to studies, we looked ahead to quarter grades and Thanksgiving. This vacation found some of us in New York, some at friends' houses, and some at our own homes—gorging ourselves.

Back again we eagerly whizzed through the three weeks till Christmas vacation, taking time out, of course, from our studies for the Sophomore Dance.

After our celebration of the New Year with all our definite resolutions, once more we attempted to return to our respective study grooves. Actually, we managed this feat rather quickly, spurred on by the fact that for many of us the records of these grades would be sent to the lucky schools we had chosen as our future abodes. Upon sailing through our exams, with the help of numerous all-nighters, we once again ditched our books for the sun or snow of various places, or just played lazy in the dorms.

We returned to second semester to find the movie Dr. Zhivago awaiting us. Next came Mardi Gras and our joy when our parents and "specials" arrived for all the Mardi Gras festivities. Following Mardi Gras, we industriously set our aims for B averages for the third quarter. Many were the tests and weekends, but we pulled through successfully enough to thoroughly enjoy our spring vacation in Bermuda, D. C., New York, Florida, or just at home.

April arrived with the honking of horns, the election of officers, and the confusion of Picker tryouts. The scent of roses was in the air, and plane tickets flew thick and fast as we managed to work in weekends to U. N. C., U. Va., and numerous others.

As the realization began to dawn on us that a portion of our lives was quickly nearing a close, we concentrated on graduation activities to keep from pondering on our loss. We rushed through the May Day festivities, the Mother-Daughter luncheon, and graduation itself. Hurried good-byes left time for only a few tears, as we promised to keep up our close friendships by mail. As we turn out the driveway, we take one last look at the school on the hill, which will soon be only a memory to us. With bittersweet tears, we promise ourselves that we will never forget . . . .

Mardi Gras was our most glamorous weekend.

The Freshman Class

As freshmen, we experienced excitement, anxiety, and confusion during our first few weeks of college. Orientation was held at Camp Sequoya, where we were introduced to the Orientation Committee, placement tests, the Cotton Pickers, new rules, and many clubs and activities. When we came back to the college, we experienced the confusion of registration and began attending our first college classes.

As a part of our orientation period, we attended assembly programs and seminars based on the theme "Encounters: Impact or Impasse." During the summer we had done assigned reading to which this theme could be applied. Applying the theme to ourselves, we realized that each one of us should take advantage of the encounters offered at Sullins to broaden her own academic and cultural horizons.

Just as we were becoming adjusted to our new environment, a sudden bombshell hit us. Rat Week—what a surprise for unsuspecting freshmen at 11 P.M.! Besides learning how to crawl to class and to tiptoe through the tulips, we became better acquainted with our big sisters. Later, we even learned to accept the victory of the sophomores in the Powder Puff Football Game. The excitement of our first Sullins-sponsored weekend at V. P. I. and the unforgettable Hut "mixers" made our first quarter grades a little less of a shock.

FRESHMAN CLASS OFFICERS

During the second quarter, we elected capable class officers and nominated the Mardi Gras Court. After our brief Thanksgiving vacation, our excitement over the coming Christmas holidays was heightened by the Choir Concert, the Freshman Banquet, the announcement of the Mardi Gras Court, Christmas caroling, and the C. R. O. Christmas party, with Mr. McKinney as Santa.

When we returned from the holidays, we suddenly realized that there were only three short weeks before semester finals. We spent those three weeks in ceaseless studying. Afterwards, however, we discovered that the anticipation was worse than the actual exams.

The third quarter was highlighted by Mardi Gras weekend. The presentation of the Court, the excellent performance by the Choir and dancers, and the Mardi Gras Ball made the occasion a memorable one. By the close of the quarter, an attack of spring fever had struck the campus—sandals were a familiar sight!

Spring vacation came at the very beginning of the final quarter. Our trip to Bermuda or home made getting back to studying difficult, but the Kentucky Derby weekend provided a break later. During the hustle and bustle of the last few weeks, we elected officers for next year and learned who the new Cotton Pickers would be. Finally, we said our good-byes to the sophomores.

By the end of the year, we realized that our encounters with the sophomores, the faculty, and one another had strengthened us intellectually and culturally. Through these encounters, we hope that we have matured enough to be a very strong Sophomore Class next year.

ORGANIZATIONS

OFFICERS

The Presidents' Council is the legislative and administrative branch of the Student Government at Sullins. It is the responsibility of the Presidents' Council to supervise the elections of campus officers, to coordinate the activities of campus clubs, and to help formulate policy.

The Council consists of its officers, the presidents of all organizations on campus, the vice-president of the student body and of the Judicial Council, and the social chairmen of the classes.

This year the Council's activities included planning the social calendar, sponsoring an informal dance and a semester break party, opening the Hut for girls and their dates on weekends, and providing each student an address book.

The purpose of the Judicial Council is to uphold the standards of the college and to promote a closer, more cooperative atmosphere among students and faculty members. It strives to create a better understanding of the Honor Code and rules of conduct stated in the Handbook.

The Council consists of a president, vice-president, three Sophomore Class members, and two Freshman Class members, elected at the end of each semester. This segment of the student body works directly with the Faculty Advisory Committee.

The Judicial Council protects the rights of all students, works to improve social, moral and academic behavior, and creates the harmony necessary for successful college life.

Sampler Staff Develops Idea

The people of Sullins are its cornerstones, and with this thought in mind, we of the Sampler Staff began trying to combine words and photographs to illustrate our idea and to represent a year of our lives. By planning our layout, struggling over sophomore writeups, selling ads to finance the book, and almost meeting our deadlines, we changed from an inexperienced staff to a cooperating, workable unit. We began to feel a real sense of accomplishment.

Along with all that work, we also found time for fun and enjoyment. We sponsored a dance in October and, with the Reflector Staff, co-sponsored the Publications Banquet in April. At the Publications Banquet, we announced the Sampler Superlatives and the dedication.

We sincerely hope that the 1967 Sampler will bring back many happy memories to you of your friends and experiences at Sullins.

From the expression on Jan's face, it seems she wants her staff to get busy!

Voice of the Campus

Suzanne and the page editors work on the dummy.

Betty Anne and the circulation staff get papers ready for mailing.

Keeping students, faculty, parents, and alumnae informed of happenings around the campus is the job of the Reflector. Published monthly, the paper enables students to voice opinions about all phases of life at Sullins.

The staff is composed of freshmen and sophomores who show an interest in journalism. These people work hard each month to present interesting stories, pictures, and news to the students.

Meeting the deadlines set by Suzanne, Miss Loyless, and the page editors is not the only work that the staff has done this year. They have also co-sponsored a banquet and sponsored a dance and the Mirror Girl Contest. The Mirror Girl Award was presented to Martha Turner at the Publications Banquet in April.

Campus Religious Organization

OFFICERS

Linda Louden, President; Sara Pardoe, Secretary; Debbie Knight, Vice-President; Patricia Wells, Treasurer.

The Campus Religious Organization, one of the most active groups on campus, is a non-denominational association open to all students. Under the guidance of the C.R.O. Council and Miss Gregg, the C.R.O. led the fellowship and spiritual life of the campus this year.

The consecration of the long-awaited new Little Chapel, which was finished during the past summer, was the highlight of the year for the C.R.O.

Throughout the year, the organization presented chapel programs each Friday and closed curtain services before Thanksgiving, Christmas, and Easter vacations and at graduation time. The C.R.O. also sponsored a collection of food for the needy at Thanksgiving and a banquet in February.

One of the greatest delights of the whole year for the students was the C.R.O. Christmas party for underprivileged children of Bristol.

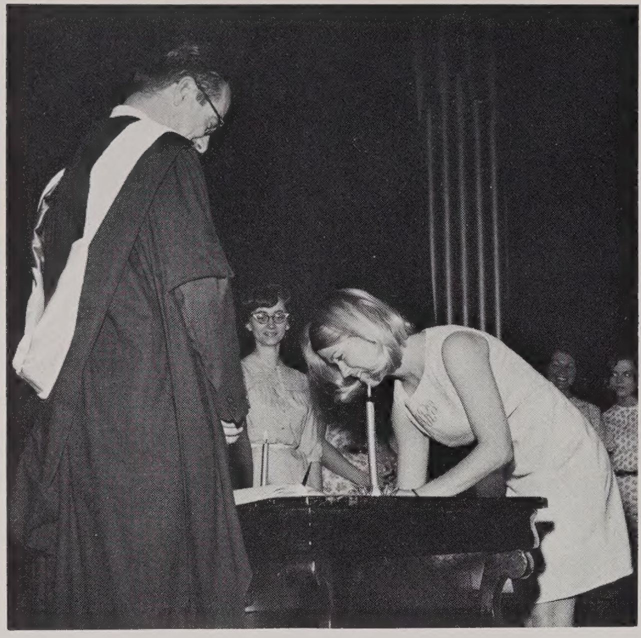
The Consecration Service of the Memorial Chapel took place in October, 1966.

Wonder who is having more fun at the Christmas party — the little girl or the big girls?



As Mr. Knipe looks on, Jan Robertson signs the Phi Theta Kappa register.

This spring sixteen sophomores were selected for membership in the Zeta Chi chapter of Phi Theta Kappa. The club, which is our only Greek letter organization, is the national honorary academic society for two-year colleges. Admission is granted on the basis of scholarship, leadership, and character, the minimum standard of eligibility at Sullins being an average grade of B with no grade lower than C for seven quarters of work.

On April 6, President William T. Martin and Mr. William A. Knipe, sponsor of the club, conducted the initiation of the new members. The significance of the Phi Theta Kappa emblem and the club's purpose were explained, and the oath of membership was administered. Following the ceremony, Father Les Schmidt of Gate City, Virginia, gave an address to the students. In the evening the girls were again honored at the Phi Theta Kappa banquet. At this time thirteen freshmen were recognized as possible future members of the society.

In order to be a member of the Science Club, one of the three honorary organizations on campus, a student must maintain a B average in her science and mathematics courses. This year the club extended its membership by passing an amendment allowing sophomore students who were in good standing with the club at the end of their freshman year but who were not taking science or mathematics courses their sophomore year to join the club if they so desired.

Under the sponsorship of Miss Hilton, the Science Club began the year by participating in the open house of the new Science Building, at which the Smithsonian Institute's "Physics and Painting" display was of particular interest. At the Science Club Banquet near the end of the first semester, new members of the club were presented with the traditional red rose. The Science Club also gave a tree to the school, planted in the hope that it will further beautify the campus and help promote interest in science.

OFFICERS

The Campus Chest is the Sullins student charity organization. This club, composed of students from both the Sophomore and the Freshman Classes, collects student pledges and allocates the funds to approximately fifteen charities.

This year the Campus Chest has also participated in service work in the Bristol area. Members volunteered to help the Tuberculosis Association mail Christmas seals this fall. For the first time some of the girls visited the Veterans Hospital in Johnson City. The visit was quite rewarding and greatly appreciated.

The Campus Chest members also collected food for needy families at Thanksgiving. However, as in the past, the most heart-warming and gratifying club project was the support of our "foster child" in Japan.

Modern Languages Club

The Modern Languages Club, a newly created organization, has already established a reputation for being one of the most interesting and educational clubs at Sullins. It has helped the girls gain a better understanding of the people, languages, and customs of the three cultures of interest to the club—French, Spanish, and German.

During the year the club has put on many varied programs. Talks, illustrated by pictures and native fashions, were given by members of the club. The informal level on which the programs were presented proved successful and enjoyable for everyone.

It is hoped that in future years the club will be able to present programs and projects in which the entire student body can participate.

OFFICERS

Membership in the Student Art Guild is the highest honor awarded an art major at Sullins. The requirements for consideration for the S.A.G. are a B average in all art courses, a true interest in art, and outstanding ability. Once these requirements are met, new members of the Art Guild are selected and initiated in the spring of their freshman year or the fall of their sophomore year. Besides functioning as a service organization, the S.A.G. tries to further the appreciation of art on the campus.

In March the Guild sponsored a banquet based on op art. The girls designed and made their own shifts and also created a backdrop, a huge collage done in black and white. During the banquet, Mr. Onorato's jazz band provided entertainment. The group also sponsored all the exhibitions at the Hut and Library, including the outstanding exhibit on commencement weekend. In its work as a service organization, the Guild created attractive scenery for various school functions, including Mardi Gras and other Dance Department productions.

The Sullins Players, the campus theatre group, contributed greatly to the development of dramatic appreciation in the students. In the early fall, the Players sponsored a banquet featuring the marvelous jazz of Mr. Onorato and his band.

Later in the year, under the direction of Mr. Olsen, the Players presented their first production, The Children's Hour by Lillian Hellman. This compelling drama was very well received by the students and public, as evidenced by the fact that seats were sold out for all three nights that it was performed.

In the early spring, the Players staged one act plays such as "Aria da Capo" and "No Why?" under student direction.

The main spring production of the Players, Tennessee Williams' powerful play Suddenly Last Summer, opened Sullins' Fine Arts Festival.

The sound of music came to Sullins early this year when the Choir offered several choral compositions in the Consecration Service of the new Memorial Chapel in October.

At the annual Christmas Concert, the girls first appeared before a capacity audience. Dressed in gowns of green brocade on royal blue, the Choir sang music appropriate to the theme "Carols of the World." The Ceremony of Carols by Benjamin Britten was the major presentation of the evening, featuring Mrs. Evelyn Vance and Betsy Yoh, sopranos. Accompaniment for the Ceremony was by Knoxville harpist Judy Macdonald.

In February, the Mardi Gras production of Carl Orff's Carmina Burana gave the girls a different and exciting opportunity in choral singing. The Sullins Choir was joined by the men's choir of the University of the South to present jointly with the Sullins Dance Department this contemporary setting of a group of thirteenth century poems written in Latin, French, and German. The Choir tour in the spring began with a second performance of Carmina Burana, this time at the University of the South. After the performance, the Sullins Choir was entertained at a University reception. The Choir then presented several concerts of a new repertoire in the area before returning to Sullins. Pamela Sibley was featured on the tour in the Appalachian carol "I Wonder as I Wander."

A memorable year of performances, which included several local appearances, came to a close for the thirty-nine members of the Choir with the annual Spring Concert during the week of commencement and with the Baccalaureate Service at State Street Methodist Church.

The Dance Club, which consists of all students taking dance, keeps the students informed of the activities of the Dance Department and contributes to Sullins' cultural atmosphere.

The dancers presented major performances this year at Christmas, Mardi Gras, and the May Festival. In addition to these, they have performed at various assemblies, at the Y.M.C.A., at the Janie Hammitt Home, and for the Episcopal children.

Jointly with the Sullins and Sewanee Choirs, the dancers presented Carmina Burana for Mardi Gras. Male dancers from the North Carolina School of Arts and the Bristol Concert Ballet Company danced with them on this occasion. This program was repeated in April at the University of the South. For the May festival the dancers presented "Excerpts of the Ballet Coppélia" with music by Leo Delibes. The Dance Club has also presented movies during the year.

Cotton Pickers

The Cotton Pickers are an important part of the Sullins tradition. No one will ever be able to forget these freckle-faced girls in the blue-denim overalls and red-checked shirts.

The lively rhythm of the Pickers is created by such instruments as spoons, a washboard, clickers, ukes, a tambourine, bongos, and even a washtub and broom.

Besides entertaining parents, dates, and friends at Mardi Gras and graduation, the Pickers play for various organizations in and around Bristol. This year they have played for the Civitan Club, Lions Club, Democratic and Republican Rallies, and the Coca-Cola Company's banquet. They also entertained at informal parties on campus throughout this year.

Starting off with "We Are" and ending with "Yankee Doodle," "Dixie," and the Alma Mater, the Pickers boost the morale of everyone.

The Hoofprints Club, under the supervision of Miss Barbara Hatcher, is just the organization for students who have an active interest in riding.

Girls were given both written and practical tests of their horsemanship, including practice in grooming, bridling, and saddling the horses and cleaning and tacking the equipment.

Through doughnut sales, the club acquired money for its many activities, such as cookouts and the informal dance given in the fall. This spring the Hoofprints Club presented a Gymkhana, games on horseback in which the riders demonstrate their horsemanship.

Although the Club members frequently used the Clubhouse, they were most often seen at the barn. They also made use of the indoor and outdoor rings and the scenic hunt course.

For those who favor forward seat riding, there are many fine hunters in the stables. Those that prefer saddle seat find a number of gaited horses. For the more timid rider, the stables also house several horses for beginners.

All riders looked forward to the end of the year when the Commencement Horse Show was given for parents and students. Awards were presented for outstanding performance in many areas, the most coveted ribbons going to the best forward seat rider and saddle seat rider.

These experienced riders enjoy being able to have their own horses here at school.

Providing fun, enjoyment, and a welcome break from the regular study routine, the Women's Recreational Association gives the Sullins students an opportunity to participate in various team and individual sports. The W.R.A. organizes a program of athletic events, including basketball and volleyball tournaments for the competitive intramural teams.

Kicking off the fall season was the traditional Powder Puff Football Game between the freshmen and sophomores. Encouraged by an able cheerleading squad, the sophomores were led to victory by Coach Foster; the win entitled them to a bout with the faculty team. Because of superior size and strength, the faculty gridironers handed the sophomores a crushing defeat, as proved by Stacey's broken arm.

Association

At Christmastime the W.R.A. led the students in the annual caroling at the faculty members' homes. Afterwards the girls returned to the college for refreshments and a Picker Party.

In February, the W.R.A. sponsored "Peanut Pals." Everyone was given a secret pal, and for three days each girl received surprises and gave similar treats to her pal. At the W.R.A. Valentine Party, each student met her "Peanut Pal"; and the winner of the phone-call raffle was drawn.

The W.R.A. Hawaiian banquet brought to a close this eventful year. Here girls were given special recognition for participation in the intramural, individual, and team sports.

Intramurals

Carmody's Commanders win the volleyball intramurals.

At the beginning of the year the entire student body was divided into fifteen units, which competed against each other in intramural volleyball and basketball tournaments. In the volleyball intramurals, heated competition took place as the units vied for the championship. After an exciting final match with Carroll Courtney's team, Sheila Carmody's unit emerged the victor. In the basketball tournament, Mary Jane Boren's fast-moving unit overcame Carmody's smooth teamwork for the top honors.

In the spring an intramural tennis tournament was held, in which many girls, competing in singles or doubles divisions, demonstrated outstanding tennis ability.

Aqua Ducks

Under the sponsorship of Miss Carolyn Moxley, who has taught water ballet and synchronized swimming at Camp Sequoya for several summer sessions, a synchronized swimming club was formed this year. The main objective of the club is to promote interest in water sports and to stress physical fitness. The enthusiastic swimmers chose to name their organization the "Aqua Ducks."

Practices were held two nights a week for the girls to learn the complicated formations of synchronized swimming. The girls were given vigorous workouts at the practices, in the hope that their efforts would pay off in improved form and style.

Volleyball

Sullins opened its intercollegiate competition this fall with volleyball. After a rigorous week of tryouts, the first team was chosen, and the real work began. The hard practices, however, paid off in a coordinated unit. The student body's enthusiasm added much to the spirit of the team.

The highlight of the season was the volleyball tournament at East Tennessee State University. Although Sullins was defeated, the girls had an opportunity to see outstanding teams from many different schools compete for the championship.

Basketball

Sherree springs for the rebound.

The Basketball Team, also under the guidance of Miss Foster and Miss Christopher, practiced hard to become a smooth-working unit. Again cheered on by many supporters, the team finished a successful year. Whether they won or lost, the girls were able to show good sportsmanship.

One of the key events of the season was the faculty-student game. During most of the game the two teams matched baskets, but finally the superior height of the faculty men gave them an advantage over the varsity girls. At any rate, everybody had fun.

Tennis practice is fun on the new courts.

The new tennis courts have created quite an enthusiasm for an already popular sport. Girls in the tennis classes find their game greatly improved through competent instruction in skills. Avid players can often be seen practicing on a sunny afternoon.

Outdoor Sports

Sally shows the grip needed to shoot a par game.

Monday and Thursday afternoons the King College Golf Course is taken over by the Sullins golfers. Golf is one of the favorite activities offered for physical education classes. Instruction is given in the proper grip, stance, and swing; and the girls work hard to improve their game.

"Dribble that ball, Marilyn. They're after you!"

For vigorous exercise soccer cannot be beaten. This fast-moving game plays an important part in both fall and spring sports. When rainy days spoil the field, girls can be seen running laps in the gym to build up their endurance. The most energetic girls participate in this sport.

Every Monday afternoon the Sullins bowlers get into the bus for their weekly trip to the lanes. Girls are given helpful tips in ball choice, stance, approach, and scoring by professional instructors who teach at the Belmont Lanes. Bowling is a very popular sport.

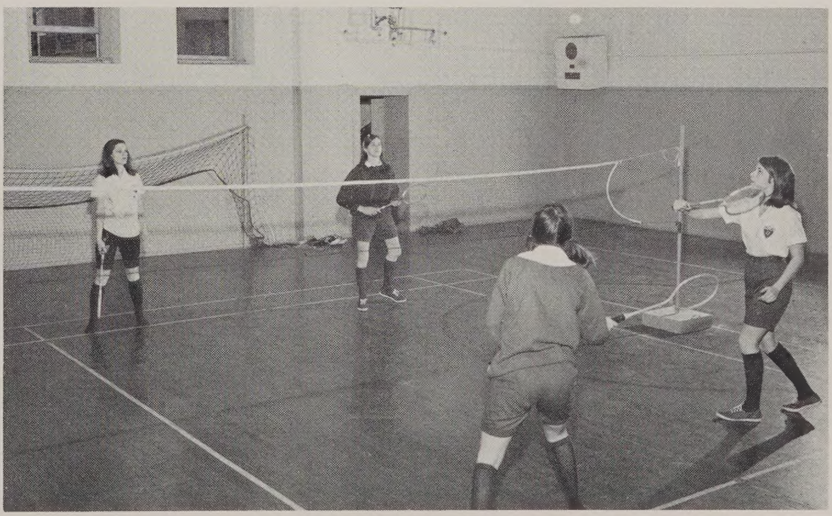
Remember. One, two, three, four — slide.

Indoor Sports

Physical fitness is the goal of the stunts and tumbling class. Girls start out with individual stunts, such as forward rolls, and progress to harder stunts, the climax being the original shows given by different groups in the class, in which difficult stunts are performed.

A pyramid's made easy, eh, girls?

For the smaller physical education classes, badminton is an excellent sport. Students begin by learning the fundamentals and progress to game strategy. The class tournament provides excitement and often inspires girls to get together in groups for games at night.



Correct grip, correct stance. Now slam that birdie, Linda!

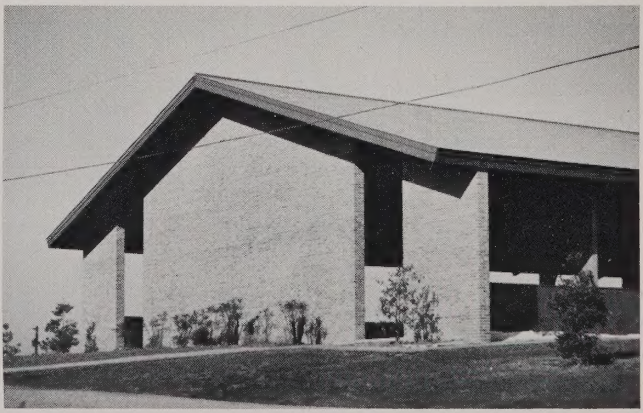
Since exercise builds hearty appetites, the dining hall is a popular place at Camp Sequoya.

The Island

Camp Sequoya, better known as "The Island," has provided a weekend retreat for the Sullins students. Almost every Saturday Miss Foster, Miss Christopher, or Miss Moxley could be seen driving the Volkswagen bus, loaded with pillows, blankets, ukes, food, and girls, out to the camp.

The winter as well as the fall and spring afforded many fun-filled weekends. The winter offered sledding, snowball fights, and slumber parties by the fire, while the warmer weather brought water skiing, tennis, sailing, swimming, canoeing, and basketball or volleyball games in the open-air gym.

The lodge is a favorite spot for relaxation.



On warm days, we play basketball in the open-air gymnasium.

The freshmen's first trip to the Island was during Orientation Week. The camp provided a relaxed atmosphere in which the girls took advantage of all the excellent facilities and met their classmates through activities such as the fashion show. The enthusiastic performance given by the Cotton Pickers made the freshmen feel more at home and at ease with each other.

ACTIVITIES

Frolicking

The Briar Creek Chapter of the D.A.R. displayed their many abilities at the talent show.

For the freshmen, September meant new friends and a new way of life; for the sophomores, it meant seeing old friends and sharing summer's experiences. The Island was the scene of Freshman Orientation Week and Lake Day, which featured not only a fashion show but also swimming, skiing, and sailing. The sophomores were introduced to their little sisters, and soon the classes seemed to be growing closer together. Our fall talent show was a "rip-roaring" success, giving us hopes for a lively and prosperous year together.

"O.K. Rats! Let's see how well you can cha-cha."

Although we rapidly got into the routines of studying, the weekends at V.P.I. were too good to pass up! But fall wouldn't be fall without Rat Week, and for three endless days the sophomores struck fear into the hearts of their freshman friends. With painted faces and outlandish outfits, the freshmen humbled themselves, so that they were quite willing to "fry like an egg" or "swim through a flash flood" upon request. The good sportsmanship of all was acknowledged at Rat Court, and again we were one big family.

The "lowly creatures" recited and sang upon request.

Calling home already, Mary? You've been back for only two days!

in the Fall

The Powder Puff Football Game gave the freshmen a chance to get even with the mighty sophomores for the "injustices" of Rat Week. At the pregame pep rally the Sullins Homecoming Queen and her court were presented. Although the freshmen turned out in great number and spirit to fight their way to victory, the sophomore offense proved too fast and the defense too strong for them. The final score gave the sophomores an overwhelming win of 12-0, but even so, both teams seemed to have loads of fun.

The freshmen tried to launch a touchdown drive.

Several open houses given by faculty members made us feel more at ease. Banquets, Hut Dances, and trips to E.T.S.U. to hear the Righteous Brothers and the Lettermen added lighter moments to our busy fall days. We attended our first Community Concert and were delighted by the voice of Mr. Theodor Uppman of the Metropolitan Opera. Thanksgiving holidays had suddenly arrived. Some of us were attracted by the school-sponsored trip to New York City, others visited friends, and the remainder of us were going home.

Excitement grew as the skirmish reached its final moments.

Some of our faculty members enjoy the crisp weather and beautiful trees of autumn.

The home of Dean and Mrs. Wheless provided a cheerful and relaxing atmosphere.

Our newly redecorated parlors looked especially elegant during the holidays.

The Choir presented carols from many different countries.

Highlights of

No sooner had we returned from a short but enjoyable Thanksgiving vacation than all thoughts turned toward the rapidly approaching Christmas holidays. As the extra activities began and the expectations of the most joyous season of the year appeared, the days rapidly escaped us; but we had hardly a moment to devote to our studies. Refrains of Christmas music floated through the decorated halls.

The pace quickened, and holiday greetings were rapidly exchanged as girls scurried to town for last minute presents. After the annual Christmas Banquet, sponsored by the Freshman Class, the anticipation rose with the announcement of the Mardi Gras court and pages. Finally the long-awaited words echoed through the silence: "Our 1967 Queen, Judy Moore; Princess, Jane Adams!"

Faculty and students enjoyed a wonderful Christmas Banquet.

Queen Judy and her attendants displayed their excitement shortly after the announcement of the Mardi Gras Court.

Sib, Betsy, and Carole trim the traditional Christmas tree.

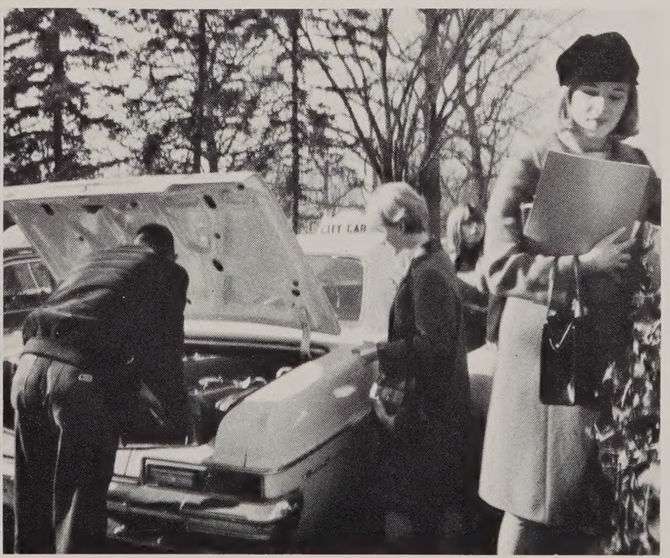
It is in giving that we receive.

the Holidays

The Dance Department thrilled us all with a presentation about Christmases of the past. "Carols of the World" was chosen as the theme of the outstanding Choir program. The W.R.A. did some of its own caroling, and many girls braved the cold to enliven the campus night. In its premiere performance, the Verse Choir gave insight into the Christmas spirit.

At last the most memorable event of the holidays, the C.R.O. party for our "Christmas children," had arrived. Wide-eyed youngsters bounded into Santa's lap. Their delighted expressions as they tore into their presents made our eyes fill with tears. An impressive closed-curtain service, followed by dorm caroling, terminated the holiday activities. Hurried good-byes were said. We were going home.

Christmas in the 1830's was the theme of one of the dance numbers.



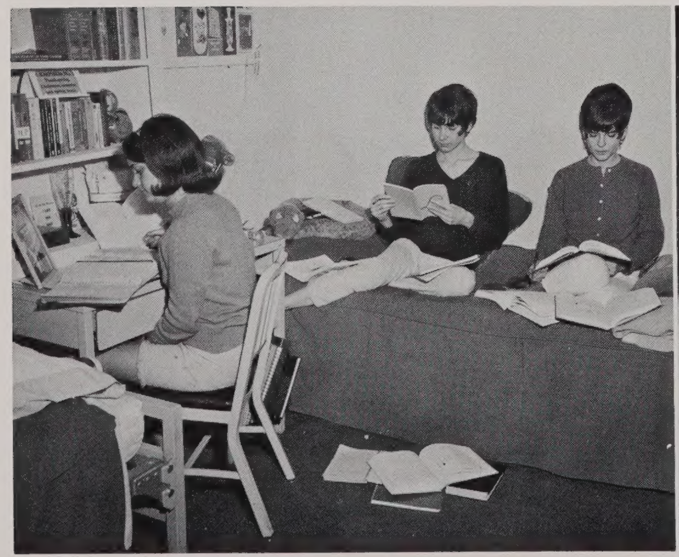
Going home!

The Pangs

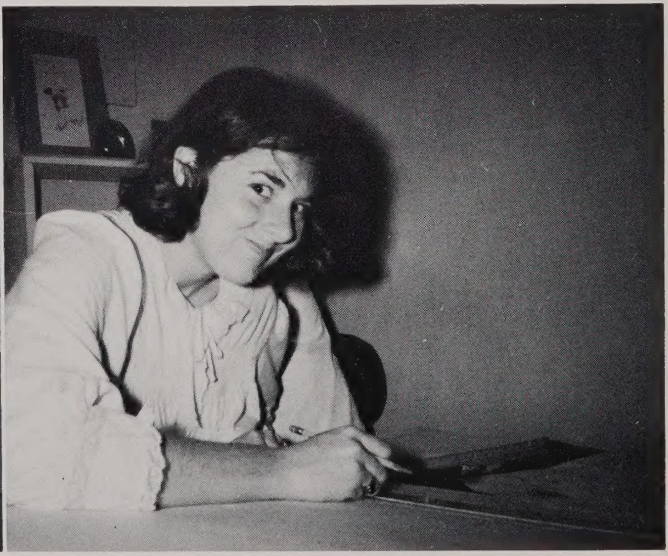
The silence of the library encouraged deep concentration.

The fun-filled Christmas holidays seemed but fleeting moments, and with the end of the semester looming before us, it became apparent that we would have to dust off our books. Soon the halls began to take on an unusual silence. The atmosphere was tense as each girl prepared herself to undertake the task of studying for exams.

Exams were suddenly upon us with full force. Red flags hung from every door, while the cry "Quiet hours!" took on a tone of seriousness. The usual exam week attire consisted of jeans and sweatshirts, and we weren't going to break this tradition. Besides, who had time to primp? Lights blazed continuously through the night. Studying was our primary concern.



Cindy, Kathy, and Diane make an attack on studying.



How can she work so hard and still smile?

of Learning

"Would you believe — I'm through! I'm through! !"

"I can't make it through another exam" was a familiar phrase. Relief wasn't far away, however, for exam break parties came to our rescue and provided us with an opportunity to release tension. The sound of laughter rang through the Hut, dispelling our blues and giving us hope that perhaps we would live through exams after all.

The hummin', pickin', strummin', clickin' Cotton Pickers pulled us out of the valley of fatigue. Eventually each girl emerged from the battle with her last exam to find, to her amazement, that she was not critically wounded. Catching up on sleep was next on the agenda for many of us, while others dashed off for a short but well-deserved vacation.

Mrs. Coffey entertained us with a Hut party.

Did they have to study so hard for a rummy exam?

Mardi

Judith Moore
Mardi Gras Queen

With exams behind us, our hearts were gay; and we soon found ourselves in the midst of the Mardi Gras excitement. We had wistfully dreamed about this weekend so many months; and Mardi Gras, 1967, was even more wonderful than we had imagined.

Every heart was beating just a bit faster in anticipation of Friday night's gala activities, which began with the presentation of the court and Princess and the coronation of the Queen. The attendants, attired in shocking-pink dresses with empire lines and tucked sleeves, were presented and took their places on the stage. Next, the pages entered, bearing the Queen's crown. The audience responded warmly to the introduction of petite, brunette Princess Jane Adams of Starke, Florida, and then fell into an expectant silence. With a bright smile and dignity befitting her station, our Mardi Gras Queen, Judy Moore of Fayetteville, North Carolina, curtsied deeply to her many admirers. The coronation soon followed, amid thundering applause; and Queen Judy's reign had begun.

Gras

The Queen and her court were honored with one of the most spectacular performances in Sullins' history. The Choir of the University of the South joined our own Choir, under the direction of Mr. Harold Daugherty, and the Dance Department in the presentation of Carmina Burana. Choreography for the production was done by our own Madame Valentina Belova. Carmina Burana, or "Songs of Beuren," by Carl Orff, is based upon thirteenth century poems written in Latin, French, and German by wandering students and runaway monks. Through a synthesis of modern and medieval elements, the composer expresses the universality of human experience. Our cast gave a sensitive interpretation of his work.

The settings designed by the Art Guild, the costuming, and the lighting complemented the production. Special vocal performances by members of both choirs, the dancing of several guest artists, and solos by many Sullins ballerinas made the finale of Carmina Burana come much too soon.

Guest artist Norman Shelburne was one of several male soloists who performed with the Sullins dancers.

The Choir entertained with songs in Latin, German, and French.

Saturday morning brought more activities, including an open house in the Hut for alumnae and guests, as well as open house in the dorms. Many of us met the families of our best friends for the first time. During the afternoon the ever-smiling, befreckled Cotton Pickers entertained at the annual "Shinanagins" and were joined by the newest Sullins rage—a jazz band featuring the talents of Mr. Olsen and Mr. Onorato! This entertainment was followed by a reception at President Martin's home, where parents and faculty could become acquainted.

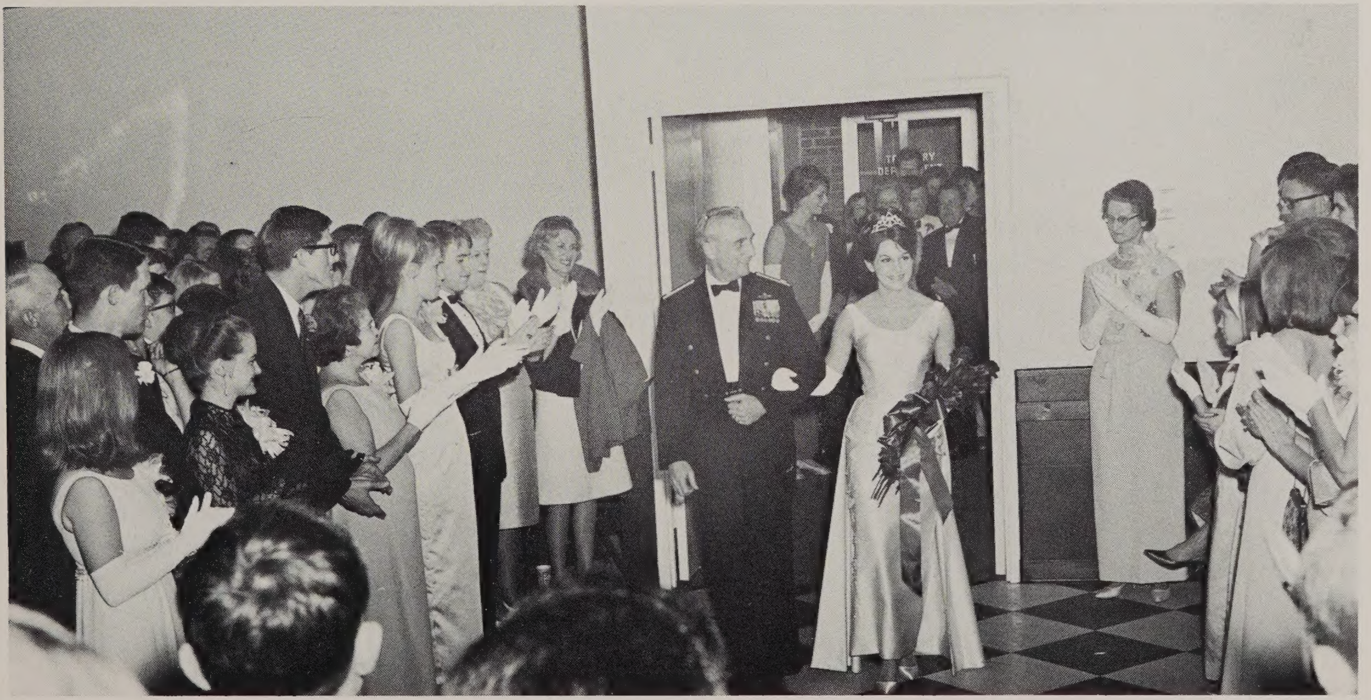
Sparkle and Glamour

The receiving line welcomed the guests to the Mardi Gras Ball.

With gay hearts we danced the night away.

At last the hour of the Mardi Gras Ball arrived, and the Sullins girls had never looked quite so elegant. Guests soon began arriving at the Holiday Inn Convention Hall to dance the night away to the music of the Billy Knauff Orchestra. During the evening the Mardi Gras Queen and court for 1967 were presented for the last time, escorted by beaming fathers and smiling dates. The following day everyone enjoyed a buffet in the Sullins dining room and said good-byes, treasuring memories of a fabulous weekend.



All eyes, especially those of her proud father, were on Queen Judy.

MARTHA TURNER
Mirror Girl, 1967

Shortly before Easter vacation, the Sophomore Class elected the SAMPLER Superlatives, and the student body elected the Mirror Girl. Somewhat earlier in the year, the Sophomore Class chose the Apple Blossom Princess.

Martha Turner, our SAMPLER Editor, won the Mirror Girl Contest, sponsored by the Reflector. She possesses qualities we all admire: Reliability, Efficiency, Friendliness, Loyalty, Enthusiasm, Charm, Trustworthiness, Originality, and Responsibility, the first letters of which spell Reflector.

Each year a sophomore represents Sullins at the Shenandoah Apple Blossom Festival held in Winchester, Virginia. Our 1967 Apple Blossom Princess was Joanne Altorfer from Peoria, Illinois. Joey's sincere nature, dancing eyes, and warm smile made her a representative of whom we were quite proud.

May is a month that brings joy and renewed tradition to Sullins in the form of May Day, customarily held the Friday before graduation. This celebration, which is a last tribute to the Sophomore Class, was reigned over by the 1967 May Queen, Betsey Hanbury of Charlotte, North Carolina, and May Princess, Martha McCoy of Norfolk, Virginia.

They were attended by two Pages and twenty ladies of the court. The girls were presented to their proud parents and fellow students in the Sylvan Theatre.

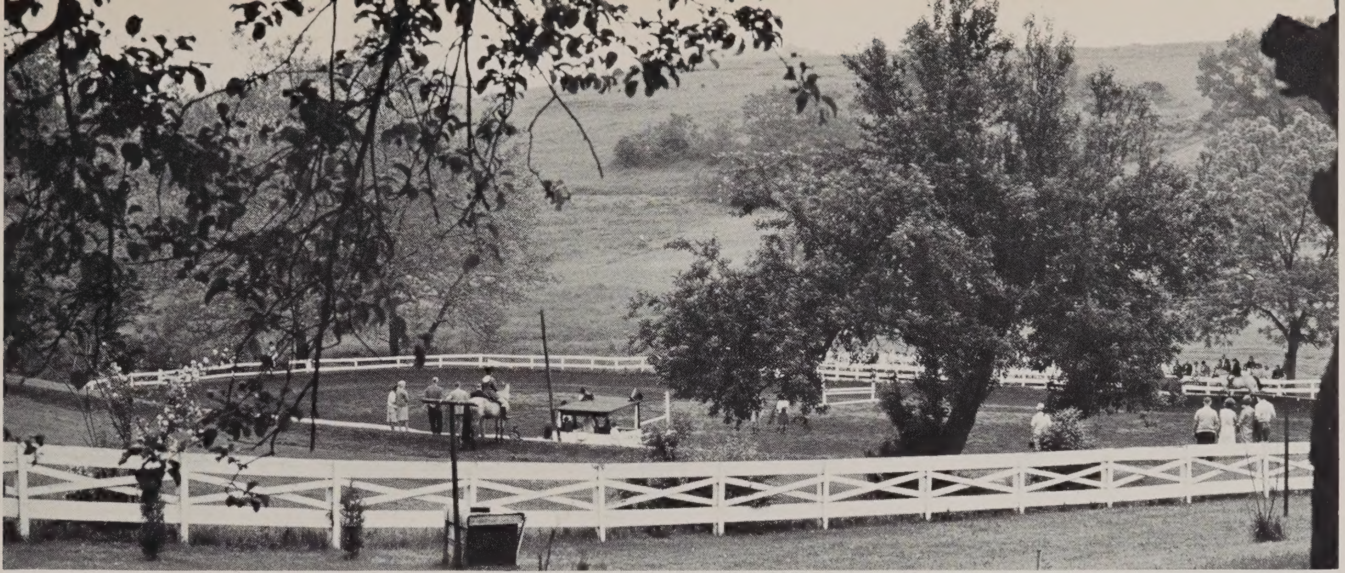
Pageant

Following the presentation of the Queen, Princess, Pages, and attendants, the Dance Department entertained the court and the audience with their last performance of the year. The dancers glided with grace and beauty through their steps in the enchanting surroundings of the Sylvan Theatre.

The May Day festival added to the splendor of the weekend before the final and fulfilling climax —graduation.

The climax came with the coronation of the May Queen.



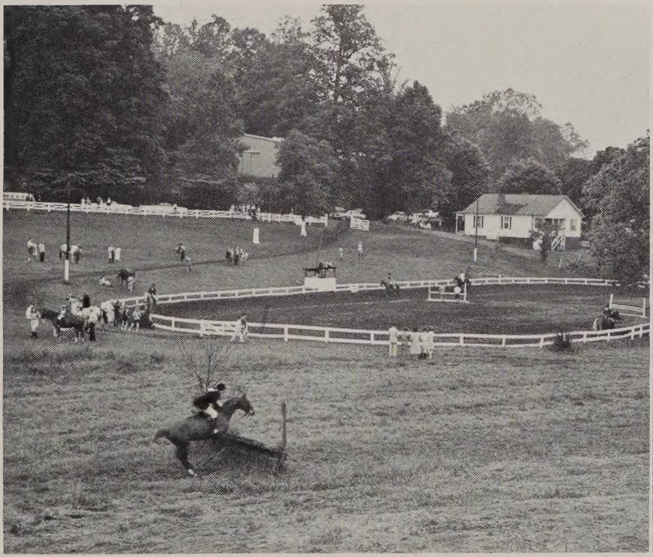
Horse enthusiasts gathered in anticipation of an exciting show.

Horse Show

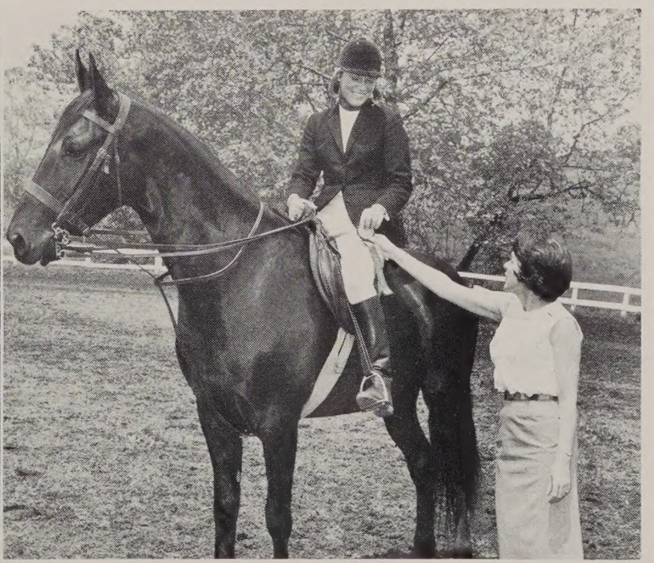
The stable fairly buzzed with activity as manes were braided and saddles were polished in final preparation for the Commencement Horse Show. All of this work became apparent when neatly dressed equestriennes rode into the ring. The crowd cheered enthusiastically as the riders guided their horses expertly through their paces and over jumps.

Each rider had shown fine horsemanship, and the judges found it difficult to pick the winners.

In preparation for the competition, the girls guided their mounts to the center of the ring.



Some riders demonstrated their skills, while others got in some last-minute practice before their chance at the ribbons.



Louise smiles broadly as she receives a ribbon from Miss Gilliam for her outstanding horsemanship.

Commencement

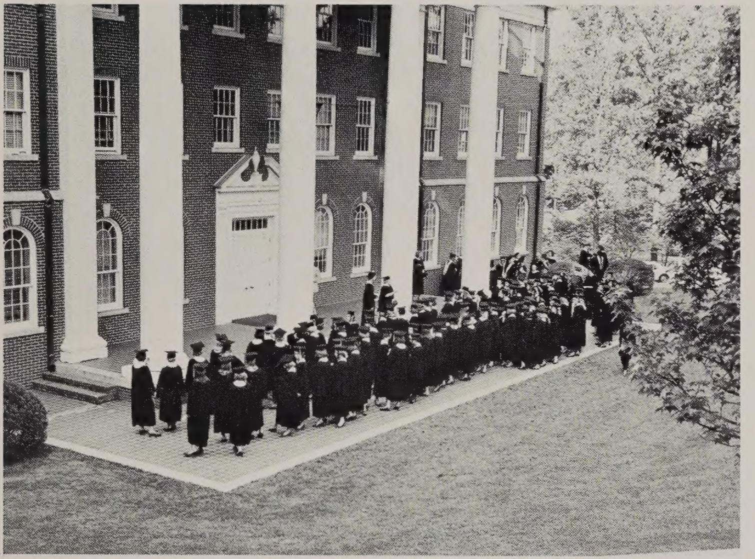
Commencement weekend is packed full of activities, and one of the most impressive of these is the art exhibit. The displays of various works gave evidence of hard work on the part of talented freshmen and sophomores.

A formal luncheon was held on Saturday for the mothers and daughters. As they listened to our chatter about our experiences at Sullins during the past two years, our mothers enjoyed discovering that college had not changed so very much.

The Graduation Ball on Saturday night brought both joy and sadness, for we realized this was our last night at Sullins. As the highlight of the evening, each girl was presented, escorted by her father. We danced under the stars.

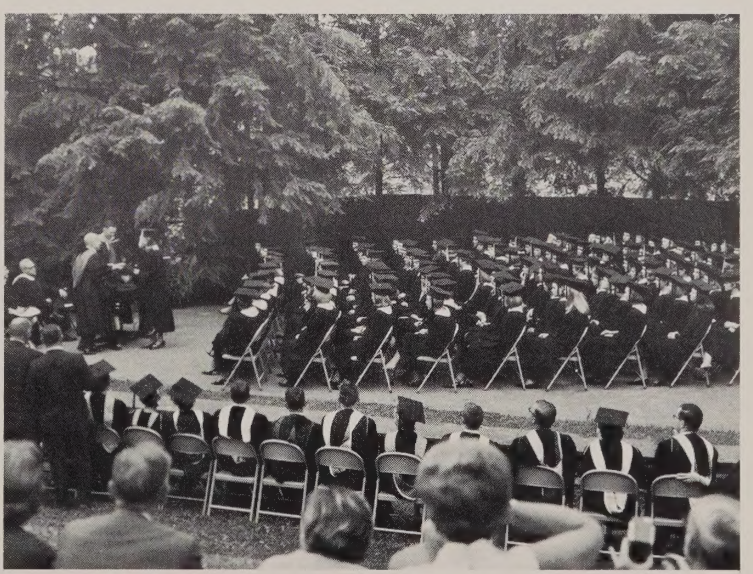
Weekend

The Sunday smorgasbord has come to be a traditional favorite with everyone, not only because there is a delicious array of food, but also because it is a time when the girls' families become better acquainted with one another.



We greeted Sunday afternoon with a sense of fulfillment. As we assembled to begin the graduation procession, however, the realization that we would soon be leaving friends we had grown to love saddened us.

With our parents and friends in the audience, we listened to the graduation speeches. Then each one of us went forward to receive the diploma which signified the key to her future and the end of her life at Sullins.



These are our memories of the people of Sullins. They have shared our experiences during this year and have given us a firm base on which to build our futures. We, the daughters of Sullins, have been its cornerstones. As we become alumnae, we realize that we must continue to support our school if it is to remain a strong body of people. Yet we have been shaped for an even more important role—that of learning to become cornerstones of society.
